- Degree declared equivalent to the academic level of *Grado (Arts and Humanities, specific field Languages) — Spanish Ministry of Universities, RD 967/2014, 17 June 2020.
- Summa Cum Laude. Degree research lines: curriculum design and English language teaching.

3 · Scholarships, awards and distinctions

First in the graduating class, and sustained academic excellence across the whole degree.

Order "Luis María Ribas Dávila" — Universidad de Los Andes · 2000, 2001, 2002 and 2003

A rectoral distinction conferred for the highest academic performance in the School of Education, Núcleo Universitario del Táchira. Awarded in four consecutive years — in every year she was assessed — evidencing excellence as a sustained trajectory rather than a single result. Signed by the Rector and the General Secretary of ULA.

First in the graduating class — 1st of 56 graduates

Own average 18.97/20 against the cohort's 15.77/20 (+3.20 points). Evidenced by the Academic Rank Certificate of the Student Records Office, with Rectorate signature certification and a Hague Apostille. It is the Venezuelan functional equivalent of the Spanish Premio Extraordinario Fin de Carrera.

High Academic Performance Scholarship — Directorate of Student Affairs, ULA-Táchira

A merit scholarship, not need-based aid, awarded on academic performance. Certified period July–December 2003, still current at the date of the certificate (13 May 2004).

Ministry scholarship — general higher-education grant for the Master's in Languages and Technology, UPV. [Official name and academic year to complete.]

Diploma of Honour from the Rector of ULA — final-year dissertation graded 20/20, Sobresaliente (15 November 2004).

2 Matrículas de Honor in the Master's Degree in Languages and Technology (UPV, 2026).

Graded 10/10 for inclusive design of the Academic Writing Journey project (UPV, 2026), in the course "Simulation, Games and Technology Applied to Teaching Strategies and Research Methodology".
